The Gilmer Baker Letters.

The full text of the leiters of Mrs. Gilmer t : Dr. Baker bave been made public in the famous murder trial now going on at Amagder. Tas inters are lengthy and paper columns The first begins;

After Dr. Baker's conviction two letters passed between him and Mrs. Gi mer, she willing the part which begins:
"You know I have revealed the truth, and in thing but fire truth.' You know, furthermore, that it was against every impulse, every feeling of my nature. I would rather have died the most awful death imaginable than to have done what I did. You know I never intended I have been than the line of the colors. auch a thing, but like other luratics, I did the very thing I least thought of doing. When I swore on that witness stand that I never intended to reveal this thing, that I would have gone down to my grave with this terrible burden hanging to my sou!) the mystery unrevealed, (bad it not been for the discovery of my letters). I meant what I swore. What can you have meant? That will always be something I can never understand, and no doubt it will be strange to you that I confessed everything to a man I have as little use for as any buman living. Possibly you could to some extent make allowance for me, if you could appreciate my situation at that time. very unexpectedly surrounded by officers, confronted with those awful letters of mine, and told if I did not tell the truth they were going to take me right on to jail.

If I, a poor, weak human being can forgive you, you, who have clouded the lives of my innocent little ones to their graves and destroyed me forever and ever don't you know our Heavenly Father is more able and willing to forgive? Oh! lay hold on His precious promise before it is everlastingly and eternally "too late." He has promised to forgive all manner of size to those who seek in faith (except sin against the Holy Ghost) May He in his mercy give you faith to sek that you may receive. My life is living, burning hell—too awful, too dreadful to describe. A mystery no human will ever understand. Pray for me, and above all pray that I may be delivered from testifying again. I cry out in the agony of my sou!, "Oh, God, if it be possible, let this cup pass." I close by earnestly imploring Almighty God to forgive you everything, and at last save your soul in the blest beyond."

Imagine my surprise when your it er was handed me hast Monday, once doomed to death on what seemed to be your voluntary statement, and now languishingin prison because of it; did I read correctly that you were forced to so testify and that you regret it? If your life be the awful hell you describe are stated in the chancery cause of John A.
